Pointing majestically and reverently toward the heavens, this magnificent memorial to the heroism of Canada in the Great War will be unveiled tomorrow by King Edward. More than 6,000 Canadian veterans, pilgrims to the shrine at Vimy, will witness the impressive sight as the draped flag drops from the gleaming white pillars. KING EDWARD MAKING FIRST VISIT ABROAD

Embarks Today for France To Dedicate Canadian War Memorial

ARRAS, France, July 25.—More than 6,000 Canadians converged today on this city and on Albert, 22 miles to the south. The pilgrimage of war veterans, their wives and children, widows, mothers and fathers of men who, 19 years ago, died to defend the things in which they believed, crossed the Atlantic prompted by a single purpose.

PILGRIMS CONGREGATE
Tomorrow they revere their home to the memory of hardship and suffering great agony. Special trains brought the pilgrims from Antwerp, Belgium, to the Canadian war memorial at Vimy Ridge.

This morning a second section of the pilgrims reached Le Havre and were conveyed to Lille, from where they will proceed to Vimy Ridge.

Performed on behalf of Canada, the first public act of King Edward VIII since the full court-mourning period expired will be to unveil the Vimy Ridge Memorial. President Lebrun of France will also be present.

This afternoon Brig. Gen. Alex. D. Cameron, President of the Canadian Legion, and the official Legion party, will proceed to the monument representing a 14-year task involving the labor of thousands of artisans and workmen at a cost of more than $100,000.

In making the excavation and in the sheltering earth, the building of the monument, the Canadian war memorial, was only the first of the work of the Legion.

Behind the Canadian Corps front replicas of Vimy Ridge were marked out with signs over which battles were practiced for weeks.

Within a few months, the Canadian Legion, which swept the earth's surface, was the preliminary bombardment, and the whole of Vimy Ridge was now in possession of the Canadian Legion.

The victory, however, was almost complete. It was clear the Vimy Ridge would yield to an assault preceded by a heavy bombardment, and for two days the battle raged.

Storming of Famous Ridge Is Well Done!

The storming of Vimy Ridge by the Canadians in April, 1917, evoked messages of admiration and congratulation from the British Empire and the allied nations. These messages were rounded off by the message from the King George V, which was read to all ranks.

The whole Empire will rejoice in the success of the Canadian army in the storming of Vimy Ridge.

MONS GREETS MEN WHO WON CITY FREEDOM

Liberated by Canadians, Belgians Recall Last Bloodless Pursuit

MONS, Belgium, July 25.—This historic city was host today to about 200 Canadian pilgrims who came from Antwerp this morning to accept the hospitality of the Burgomaster and citizens for a few hours.

After in the day they emigrate to Valenciennes, 20 miles west across the French frontier. There they will attend the ceremony of the unveiling of the national memorial on Vimy Ridge tomorrow.

The pilgrims were a small portion of the 6,000 veterans of the Great War, their wives, dependents and the next-of-kin of Canadian soldiers who died in that conflict. They have come from Canada to attend the unveiling of the national memorial on Vimy Ridge tomorrow.

In a gesture of friendship to this city, four frames containing the names of all the Canadian soldiers who served in France and Belgium were being presented to the Mons War Museum. These were the work of H. Turner, Collector of Customs at Gocherich, Ontario.

FIRST BATTLE OF MONS
No city in Belgium can overshadow the distinction which Mons enjoys. It was here the British Army began the war, and here the Canadian corps ended it. About three miles northeast of Mons, the highway to Brussels, is the Village of Casteau, famous for its battle of Mons, the first battle of the war.

The battle of Mons, which opened the next day, August 23, the place in Imperial history of the war, has been assured. So also is the recovery of the city of Mons after more than four years of occupation by the Germans.

How A Government Really Gets Its Money

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

Every once in a while some great and bright mind breaks into publicity by proclaiming that the only way a government gets its money is by taxation, direct or indirect, and that governmental extravagance is responsible for our financial conditions.

There is no truth in this theory. A government gets its money as its share of the profits of the commerce of the nation; and cannot get it in any other way without bringing on panic, distress, and unemployment.

That is why the control and direction of legal tender currency is the most vital factor in proper administration.

Entrust the control and direction of legal tender currency to individuals or to corporations, and there follows a course of carrying values up by property publicity and plenty of available credit and money; then a selling out at top prices; followed by the vanishing of credit and money; a crash in values, a panic, unemployment, and a political upheaval. Then a buying back at bottom prices, and a gradual restoration of available money and credit and values until the time is propitious for another sale at the top, followed by another cycle of panic, crashing values, distress and unemployment.

This has been the history of North America for over a century. While things are on the up-grade of profits taken by the Government is ample, when panic comes we get into an era of tax sales. This is a true recital of our troubles.

The true remedial policy is to give effect to the truth that the Government will have no trouble in getting its money so long as it controls the issue of the legal tender currency of the nation and is prospering and earning and making money.

The cornerstone of this policy is to safeguard against any contraction of credit and of legal tender. Generally speaking an asset which has no loan value has only a bankruptcy sale value; the Government is the basic and the only asset which is available for all and all loan demands having constructive purpose, with reasonable security for repayment by instalments with not higher than four per cent interest. The Government can get enough out of this to retire the national debt and the railway debt. It must go back to the point of no return.

The second line of defence against panic and unemployment is to build up a national system of community industries. The only practical method of doing this is to effect an equalized cost of delivery for all necessities of life and of industry at prices fairly comparable with world values. This requires necessary to coal and lumber. We equalize delivered costs for postal matter,—so there is no impossibility involved.

Take the instance of a community industry requiring four tons of coal per day. Such an industry will be kept out of business by a cost of $100 per ton, and can flourish on a $50 a ton basis. On the ten dollar basis the railways will get nothing because the community industry will not be there. On the five dollar basis the railways will get world values. This requires necessary to coal and lumber. We equalize delivered costs for postal matter,—so there is no impossibility involved.

Nothing but a belief in miracle men—who are non-existent—prevents the application of common sense to finance and transportation.

stances; that its purchasing power should be pegged to the National Index of Commodity Prices and that time contracts should not be disturbed by either inflation or deflation, and that accounts should be simple, accurate and just. And the device suggested by the author is that the National Index should be a weekly stamp given payable by everybody in respect of their money holdings on a given day in each and every week.

This article cannot deal with all the beneficial consequences of the use of demurrage money as suggested by Silvio Gesell. Those interested in the subject should consult his book, "The Natural Economic Order," obtainable from The Free University, London, Canada or from the present writer. I give however a summary of Gesell's teaching.

1. Money has a glorious destiny subject to its willingness to conform the natural laws of the universe.

2. Property is the natural condition of man and his life is not afflicted with disorder and chaos if it is not because of any defect in the natural law of the universe. It is because those laws have been disturbed.

3. Man's job is not to invent cunning schemes by which to evade the natural law, but to bring himself into conformity with the natural order. He must go back to the point of no return.

4. The application of the natural law of property and brought upon himself Nature's law of demurrage, which is the law of evolution and leads to the evolution of the human race.

5. The results of competition in modern society have been disastrous. The main source of the evils of modern society is the competition of the individual against the individual, which has led to the exploitation of the individual by the individual.

6. The purpose of the book is not to formulate a practical plan of economic reconstruction, but to construct a theoretical foundation for a scientific system of exchange, and offer an explanation for the accepted facts of economic life.

7. In reviewing this highly remarkable book Prof. G. H. Cole makes the following statement: "But now there comes, from one who is no Socialist and no Communist, a book which is a masterpiece of the scientific method, and which is a masterpiece of the scientific method, and which is a masterpiece of the scientific method."

8. The change in the land system proposed by Gesell was the gradual acquisition by purchase of natural resources not in private ownership but by means of financial-indebtedness, i.e., bonds maintained in part by periodic adjustment of the interest payable thereon.

Diane, True Daughter Of Barrymore

Despite all stories about John Barrymore's flitting romance with the beautiful Elaine Barlow, the famous matinee idol and screen star, is a dead parent.

Recently he received word that his daughter, Diane (Michael Strange, John's second wife, mother), was not doing her school work to well.

Immediately John dispatched a frantic letter, warning her "to get to work or else."

His daughter Diane's reply really tripped her father's comment with "I don't want to do well in my school work. I am doing well in everything except 'Psychology'—I don't like it anyway."

"I'm very sick of people who go through life in a 'prelude,' Diane would up her letter."

MAE WEST has gone to bed to revise "Personal Appearance," stage hit for her next movie. Mae always writes in bed.

The Central Casting bureau, the agency through which most movie extras are employed, receives nearly 12,000 telephone calls daily. Most of them are persons seeking work.

Despite many stories to the contrary, those who know her best, JEAN HARLOW is only 24 years old.

JOAN CRAWFORD frequently laments going to bed to revise "Personal Appearance," stage hit for her next movie. Mae always writes in bed.

Based on the present and past list of movie stars, the figures show that only one girl in 5,000 has a chance to rise from an extra to a movie star.

JEAN HARLOW will accept almost any sort of criticism concerning her work, but never forgets a remark that "reflects upon her beauty."

LOUIS CALHOUN refused a long term movie contract to keep his promise to appear with a small summer stock company.

HAILE SELASSIE, deposed emperor of Ethiopia, may visit America but insists he will make no moving pictures.

JOE PENNER, the radio duck salesman, is making a radio comeback in the time of $4,400 a week.

HENRY FONDA invited everyone on the movie set to have ice cream on him, then discovered he was fat broke. A loan from PAT PATTERSON, who was helping him, saved him embarrassment.

A strange ash tray that STUART ERWIN received from a south sea island and been using for some months, turned out to be a shrunken and carved skull.

Two radio executives, thinking to be funny, recently broadcast for one-armed paperhangers. To their surprise 35 bonfire replies were received.

Bad Cooking Made Olivia Movie Star

Ridicule Drove Pretty Miss De Havilland Out Kitchen Onto Stage

If Olivia de Havilland, 10-year-old Hollywood star, had been a better cook, she might not now be a movie star.

But as it turned out Olivia was such a "bad" cook she abandoned her plans for a domestic career and took up dramatics instead.

It all happened while Olivia was in high school at Saratoga, Calif. She enrolled in the domestic science course there, determined to learn all about the mysteries of housekeeping.

Of course Olivia made a fetching picture in frilly aprons, and she's just plump enough to look the part of a good cook. But somehow her cooking results were never as attractive as Olivia herself.

In cakes she was always getting too much shortening or not enough. Olivia would forget the baking powder the biscuits and then they wouldn't rise. Somehow her pie crusts were always tough.

Olivia was always burning things she cooked or her own fingers. Her culinary efforts in fact became the joke of the whole school.

Now no one likes to be the butt of even good natured jokes, so Olivia decided her talents were not domestic. She gave up cooking and tried dramatics.

It's history now how she played a Shakespearean role her last semester in high school and how the great Max Reinhardt gave her a job as understudy to Gloria Stuart, who was to play "Hermia" in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

With but a week to go before the big picture was to begin, it was suddenly announced Gloria Stuart would be unable to take the part.

ELEANOR POWELL, says that she has no intentions of marrying anyone and if she changes her mind, he will have to be a better-looker like herself.

HARLOW, once the rage with New Yorkers seeking night life, has become suddenly very dull. Even the famous Cotton club has had to close.

His wife and family A HANDICAP TO HIM

"Last summer, when the hot weather was over, I wrote him two long letters saying that I thought I should join him, bringing the children, and we should start our home abroad, but he is violently opposed to this. My first letter on the subject he ignored, to my second one he answered that it was impossible. He said I would have to pay $10 a month on the old house, rent is high in this locality, and until we can do things in the right way your coming with the children would be a real handicap to me, as this job has its social side and I have to keep up a certain appearance."

"Four years ago we put our house on the market, but as everyone knows these have not been good years for real estate, and we are in a bad social circle for residence in the city, and the property value has been reduced, and with it all business has switched another way."

"Two things that have happened this week have determined me to write to you to ask you if you know any arguments I can use to restore my life to its old basis as a married woman happy in her home, husband and children. I am sure that Jim has sent me only $65 this month, explaining that he 'simply has to clear off some debts, and asking me if I will start a little emergency fund so that after awhile he need not feel that the failure to send a monthly check means inconvenience to me. The answer is that through a relative of his employer, I learned quite accidentally the other day that in January he received a commission of seven hundred and odd dollars."

Major Bowes Refused $15,000, Gets $25,000

Refused a $15,000 weekly salary by his radio sponsor, Major Edward Bowes, has a deal now with an automobile manufacturer and to pay $25,000 weekly.

This probably is the highest salary in the world today. For 52 weeks the total would reach $1,300,000. The Major also has income from other sources such as stage appearances, a magazine, etc.

LIFE VEIL, needing money, nearly forfeited a radio contract in South America worth $10,000, because she refused to leave Hollywood until after one of her favorite prettiest friends had made it.

Lowest wage paid to Hollywood extras is $120 a day. The top price for "dress" parts is $15 a day.

MacMurray Back

No sooner did Fred MacMurray disembark from his Honolulu honeymoon trip that he had to denounce it, this time for "Chapman Waite," in which MacMurray shares dollar honors with Gladys Swarthout.

LESIE HOWARD recently cancelled airplane reservations from Hollywood to New York because an airliner told him it would be unlikely to fly that week.

When CHARLES BOYER and PAT PATTERSON were married some months ago, he could speak only a smattering of English and she only a few broken phrases of French. Now each speaks the other's tongue fluently.

Love And Kisses To Win Break In Daily News

Though Ms. Lupino scarcely knew Nino Martin, who is to be her next leading man in movies, she greeted him as enthusiastically at the railway station, that Hollywood scribbles thought it was a new romance.

As a matter of fact it was just a stunt to build up publicity for the forthcoming picture and it worked.

Olivia de Havilland (above) takes a holiday at Palm Springs, Cal., exclusive playground of the film stars. Not too plump, but delightfully curved. Olivia is regarded as one of the prettiest girl stars in Hollywood. She is just 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 109 pounds. She has a five-year contract and will have amassed a sizeable fortune before she is 25 years old.

PALM SPRINGS

HEART-TO-HEART TALKS - - - By Kathleen Norris

"DEAR Mrs. Norris I have been married for ten years and have three adorable children, girls of eight and a boy of five. Two years ago, after having always been successful in business, my husband through no fault of his own lost his job. We had saved something, and for a few weeks he hunted for new work and we had happy week-end mornings with the babies in the garden and little meals in the kitchen and we called it our second honeymoon. Then he got a good position in a town four hundred miles away. For twenty months he has not lived at home, and we see him only once in every month or six weeks. Jim's pay is $250 a month. It would be right if we were together. But it costs him more than half that to live in a hotel, keep himself well dressed and groomed, and take care of all the incidental expenses when he comes home. He comes home with a suitcase, a taxi, movie books, lip-sand on his face, occasionally a little sex, and we live on that. It doesn't include insurance. It means that the good management payments on the old house bought ten years ago are low, but there are taxes and repairs, children's shoes, straining for the girls' teeth, a thousand and one demands beside those of bread and butter. The house is shabby, it needs painting, repairing, changing the furniture is shabby, and, of course, I am shabby. It is not only that I have had no money for new clothes for several years, it is that those clothes I have had, have that hard a life. Cleaning, cooking, washing, sweeping, handling great pots and pans and caring for small girls with measles are not helpful activities for clothes."

VISITING FATHER FINDS CHILDREN THRESE

"Three years ago we used to say that if we could ever get hold of a thousand dollars we would turn the upper story of the house into a separate flat, rent both flats, and have a nice little income from them to invest in a better place. But that dream is evidently long forgotten now. When Jim comes home he is absent-minded, cool, he seems to feel he is doing me a favor, he comments unfavorably on the general shabbiness of everything in the house with the children, and always leaves before he need leave, telling me casually at Sunday lunch, perhaps, that he is taking a three-day train for the month. He tells me of the friends he has in his new environment, that his boss is a wonderful manager, that he has no children and a good servant, and that some other man's wife serves him a perfect dinner, flowers, candles, delicious food, no effort at all painting, repairing, changing the furniture is shabby, and, of course, I am shabby. It is not only that I have had no money for new clothes for several years, it is that those clothes I have had, have that hard a life. Cleaning, cooking, washing, sweeping, handling great pots and pans and caring for small girls with measles are not helpful activities for clothes."

LIFE ISN'T ALWAYS FAIR

"If you were my daughter, Adelaide, I would not wish you to sympathize with me, but to sympathize with the picture you see of my daughter, not further excited up with any reference to the rage that the situation—and it is not Jim's fault, tomorrow yours. Those-

HARD WORK WHICH BRINGS INDEPENDENCE IS THE GREATEST SOLACE TO A WOMAN WHOSE HUSBAND HAS DECIDED TO GO HIS OWN WAY — SELFISH OLDER WOMEN OFTEN ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR SONS' UNHAPPY MARRIED LIVES

When Jim comes home he is absent-minded, cool. He seems to feel he is doing me a favor. He comments unfavorably on the general shabbiness of everything.

any words at all on the initiative. The only one of the kind—always comes in me. I would not waste the usual selfishness of a man who can carry a loving, hard-working, make along. Jim is not a selfish man in the responsibilities of home and child, and poverty, and then stroll out, to spend his money on theatre tickets, taxi, and flowers for other women. With less courage and initiative than you have, have pulled themselves out of deeper difficulties. You must put Jim out of your life for awhile and be YOURSELF. There is nothing more selfish for a woman than to let go the group that has meant love and happiness for her, but you have to do that now. To him Jim, to force yourself and the three children, and the multiplied expenses of a move on him, would only precipitate disaster. There is a happy, useful, full life for you right where you are. If you don't have the glamour of love in it, son you only a few dollars. Make the girls help with dishes, get to bed on time, and keep the children to make and sweep and keep the house in which they are not staid enough to find a place to sleep and eat in comfort. Work hard, read good books, see good movies, distract yourself, and discover—as so many women do after these years of shipwreck—that cracked and mended hearts are stronger than the ones that never were broken."

SELFISH MOTHER CAN WRECK MAN'S MARRIED HAPPINESS

Now here's an answer to another woman in trouble. This woman went with her two little boys to live with her mother-in-law, as a temporary accommodation to her husband, during the depression years. The double household didn't work; the two women were basically incompatible, and the husband, a widow's only child and badly spoiled, was inclined to take his mother's side. He certainly did not intend to preclude the little boys from their mother's love, and the mother-in-law, by coming to them, was telling them to give up to Gummy's mother. After two years of it the mother felt she was going crazy, and departed to visit her own mother in a distant city. She and the boys still are there. In the beginning her husband wrote her asking her to return, now for ten months he has not written at all. But his mother writes to her, sending them sweaters and books and pocket-money "from Daddy."

This is a hard problem to solve, for a man naturally loves his mother, and a clever and unscrupulous older woman can always make him think that she is innocent, abused, devoted, and that it is the wife who is making the trouble. Deliberately selfish and untruthful persons can make an enormous amount of trouble in this world, and there is no immediate cure. SHOW YOUR HUSBAND HE IS IN THE WRONG

Why not get some new clothes. Margaret, steel yourself to be nothing but amused, friendly, happy, and go along with the boys? Your mother-in-law can't refuse you a house room, and perhaps, after a little separation, your husband will be ready to see more clearly that he is destroying his life and yours for the sake of a twisted old woman.

To Margaret and other girls and women I like to say that letters addressed to Saratoga, California come straight to me, and no eyes but mine see them. Sometimes other directions go to hotels, cross and recross the continent, and the personal answers are thereby delayed.

Put borders in each of your washrooms, and arrange for the children, a tin shower, and a wash basin outside the kitchen door. Their ancestors kept healthy and clean by these simple means. You have a downstairs lavatory, the shower will

ROMANCE OF OLD FRISCO AT CAPITOL

Clark Gable's newest picture role in "Romance of Old Frisco" is a romantic musical drama of early San Francisco in which he is co-starring with Jeanette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy.

Gable's vigorous roles in "China Seas" and "Mutiny on the Bounty," and Miss MacDonald's outstanding success in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie" served as the inspiration to bring the two notable stars together for the first time.

In the new picture, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Romance of Old Frisco" opening a new day run today at the Capitol theatre, Gable portrays a big-time gambler, "The Golden Gate" and which did more to elevate him to the top ranks of stardom than any other characterizations.

Miss MacDonald is a small-town minister's daughter who seeks a big venture in San Francisco, rises to fame in the music halls and, later, in the legitimate theatre.

Bernard Hyman and John Emery, who produced the musical drama, with W. S. Van Dyke as director, show an original story by Robert Hopkins. Anita Loos wrote the screen play.

An absorbing love story for Gable and Miss MacDonald is woven through the plot, with MacDonald singing favorite songs of the past and others written for her. These range from melodies familiar to every household to the most famous operatic arias.

Pianist
Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers have returned to the piano music in "Romance of Old Frisco," in which they prepared their dance routines for "Romance." They worked together again in rehearsing "Swing Time."

Rider
Gene Raymond, currently appearing with Ann Southern in "Mount Rushmore," has won many blue ribbons for jumping in horse shows.

Topical
The famous "Hindenburg" Zeppelin, with its feature film debut in "Second Wife," which shows Walter making the last trip to Europe in the huge airship.

HERE'S HOW, SAYS STARLET DIANA GIBSON TIPS BEACH BEAUTIES JOE BROWN'S NEW PICTURE WITH STRAND

Joan Blondell Co-Stars In "Sons O' Guns"

By far the most exciting as well as the most uproariously funny of all Joe Brown's pictures, "Sons O' Guns" is a comedy of the World War, which was shown for the first time locally at the Strand theatre last night.

Rids and grown-up alive in red with laughter at the comedian's nonsensical antics in the battle line of the French front. For this is a comedy of the World War, although it is entirely bloodless and deals only with the humorous side of the life of the doughboys in the A.E.F.

The picture is a Broadway musical comedy film of the same title by Fred Thompson and Jack Donaghy, which carries some of the rollicking martial songs of the comic producers, who were being whittled everywhere a few years ago. In addition, there are new airs written by the famous song team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin, that set everyone's feet to tapping and are destined to be among the songs of the day.

In addition to the songs there are special bits of comedy that are rife with laughter, especially the Apache act as staged up with Frank Mitchell as his feminine partner, who is dressed as a hunky Apache dressed as Montmartre night girl.

Joe, himself, never was so funny as he is as the timorous doughboy who is so dumb that while firing from the enemy he captures a regiment by mistake.

MAJOR AND MINOR NOTES

Rialto Screening Two Features For Next Week's Bill

Smelled A Mice

"Something's in the matter," announced the sound man in the "Three Married Men" set.

"What is it?" asked Eddie Buzzell, the director.

"I can't make it out," said the entire new sound crew in the end of the dialogue, replied the engineer.

"Quiet! We'll try it again," ordered the director, raising his hat.

"Same thing again," declared the sound man, "seems like it might be a mouse."

Investigation revealed the source of the interference. The gentlemen in the set were wearing a new belt and every time it rubbed the leather which was being held by Mary Brun and Bruce Karns, his "harem" squeaked.

Ronald Colman
Princess
With Ronald Colman at the head of an amazing list of stars and featured players, one of the great photoplays of all time is at the Rialto theatre. It is "A Tale of Two Cities," from Charles Dickens' novel.

The picture takes its place with the few great immortals of photography, from which time is dated in screen annals. It is a magnificent entertainment.

Yet with a deftness that is almost incredible, the producers have not permitted the spectacular action to overshadow the human elements that make the picture truly great.

In the midst of pomp and of tumult, the camera follows faithfully the group of men and women whose lives are vitally affected by the events of the story.

Monday at the Rialto theatre, seven new A-list songs, and two Smiley Burnette comedy songs, offer unusual screen entertainment in a picture packed with comedy, romance and fighting.

Mummys' Boys' new Wheeler-Woolsey comedy pokes fun at the typical murder mystery movie.

In Praise of Green Peas—By Nellie McClung

Mrs. Nellie McClung, author, statesman, lecturer, prize school teacher, former member of the Alberta legislature, and friend and confidante of many a woman, has just brewed the hardiest of western home-made and distant farms, is now on the staff of the Bulletin. We weekly article from her, the gifted pen of Nellie McClung will appear in The Bulletin. They will deal with those things which appeal to women of the west: home life, a healthy personal style, and the like.—EDITOR.

We can see across Haro Strait, the island of San Juan in the State of Washington, where one of the industries is the raising and canning of green peas. I saw the peas there, and I saw the canning of the crop is brought, and the peas are then taken to the canner. It is a great thing to see the young pods, not yet filled, have to be wasted. One of the brands is called "Green Peas".

Like most people who spent their childhood on the prairie, I have a sentimental regard for green peas. We often took them to school with us, to eat, but not many of them survived the morning recess. Shelling peas was a coveted occupation, when it carried "eating privileges." Before the time of fruit trees, or the early obtaining of fruit or other goods from Ontario and British Columbia, green peas were still a staple. The berries marked the very peak of high living.

The time of green peas brings back to my neighborhood this week, and now the great merit of the hour is for pickers. The strawberries and raspberries have taken up the professional pickers, and the children are still in school.

SCHOOL RELEASED
However, school is released at 3 o'clock in this province, and this is the time when the children are released from school. The children are released from school at 3 o'clock in this province, and this is the time when the children are released from school.

Flower Girl Has Important Task of Minding P's and Q's For Horticultural Society

By NAOMI LANG
MISS WINIFRED STOWE, of the Edmonton Horticultural Society, doesn't have to know anything about flowers or diseases of potatoes, as one might expect, because, as she says, she is just the secretary, and the secretary really doesn't have to know anything. This is just a little bit of the story.

In truth she is the delightful story-book kind of person who can be seen in the evenings entering on her back the book of the society, and she is a most important kind of wife, flower girl, and so on. Then, too, her father, Mr. E. J. Stow, is head of the society, and she is a most important kind of wife, flower girl, and so on.

Col. Stewart Dunn Collects Samples of Drugs of Old China

University Official Studies Ancient Formulae Of Orient

A veritable jungle of rhinoceros, reptiles and insects grows on the desk of Col. F. A. Stewart Dunn, professor of materia medica and pharmacology at the University of Alberta.

The worthy doctor possesses both the containing, stony-eyed and drug-addicted, and even more, that a man should be so crossed.

8,000 YEARS OLD

The strange incident is the last of a year's study in China studying the drugs and medicines. They represent the accumulation of knowledge for over 8,000 years. Despite the fact that up to now, only recently Oriental doctors and druggists collected at what they considered the superstition and quackery of Oriental medicine.

Recent discoveries have shown that there is a good scientific principle behind the use of each drug.

Snakes and lizards are boiled and the patient drinks the concoction as a general tonic, and believe it or not, it works.

Snakes and lizards are certain chemicals and such that have actual beneficial results.

ANIMAL GLANDS

Our most expensive and valuable drugs are extracted from the glands and organs of animals. The Hecolite Institute procures glands to prepare "Bulin," a drug the Chinese have obtained and used thousands of years.

Despite the fact that most of these drugs are known to and used by western physicians today, it was not until they were prepared in 1906. About every second Chinese drug is an apocryphal.

They have hundreds of them, but they don't call them by colorful occidental names. When a Chinese gets ill he visits "the hall of the gods" in immortality, the hall of tranquility and remembrance.

JUST PILLS

A Chinese doctor usually prescribes a pill. Col. Dunn opened up a box covered with Chinese writing and displayed several, several others somewhat over an inch in diameter.

When asked the Chinese, "are these?"

The reporter hadn't the slightest idea, but they looked a lot like those things the horse doctor blows down a sick horse's throat in the morning.

Col. Dunn, the Chinese, "simply Chinese pills." You see, he continued to explain, these Chinese pharmacists make up his pills and then he covers it with a very considerable thickness of wax, which you see. This seal of the pill keeps them from the air and they are kept perfectly for years.

When you want your pill to break off the wax—and there is your pill."

Friday night rain put a damper on crime activities. The only reported death was the theft of a gold chain of value $100, belonging to August Klauk, 1009 13th street, parked at the rear of his residence.

HARRY KINLOCH DEFEATS DOUGLAS GUNN

LOOKING THEM OVER

Wetaskiwin's Passing Result of Tough Brakes—Mustangs Big Threat

Wetaskiwin's decision to drop from the Northern Alberta Baseball League brings a lot of genuine regret and sympathy. This fine sport town has played a vital part in bringing baseball up to the high standard which it now is in northern Alberta. Without Wetaskiwin, it is very doubtful if the Northern League could have been organized this year. This town, even here, has left no stone unturned in its effort to complete the schedule.

Tough breaks in the weather and other circumstances over which the Braves had no control are the major causes leading to the decision to drop out. Throughout the entire first half, Wetaskiwin did not get more than two good breaks in the weather for their home games. In addition, the late date at which they started cost them the services of two top-notch pitchers whom they were unable to replace.

At the league meeting last night, Wetaskiwin's position was carefully threshed out, and no acceptable alternative could be devised that would keep the club continuing. It was made clear, however, that the town was not washing its hands of baseball for future years, but was merely going ahead on sound business lines before getting too seriously involved.

Mustangs Add New Fire

Fortunately for the league, Calgary Mustangs have been anxious for some time to enter the circuit and have built up a club which is fully capable of holding its own with the Cards, Shastas and Ponkas—in fact, the Mustangs may be more than the other teams are bargaining for.

The league as it now stands, strengthened all around by a distribution of the fastest players from Wetaskiwin, promises much better ball than was seen in the first half. All clubs have got their bearings and are closely enough balanced so that every game should be a real battle all the way. In addition, a long session of the executive last night removed a lot of the causes of recent trouble.

Commenting on the Mustangs in his column, Harry Scott, sports editor of the Calgary Albertan, rates them as the fastest ball team Calgary has seen since the days of the old Western Canada League. Responsible men are behind the club and it is managed by Dodger Lewis, who has plenty of experience in top-notch baseball circles. Lewis was at one time on the pitching staff of the St. Louis Cardinals and played with the House of David among other clubs.

Ike Davis, who played against the Mustangs in the season earlier in the season before going to Ponoka, figures that the Calgary team will extend all the northern clubs to the limit. To make sure that these southerners will not be leaving his Panthers behind in a cloud of dust, he grabbed Aguirre from Wetaskiwin last night and is getting the wires hot in search of another right hand pitcher.

Sparkling Golf For Week-end

Two golf features are billed for the week-end that will draw big galleries to the Mayfair course. The first of these is the final of the Alberta open championship between Bobby Proctor and Henry Martell, which was left over from the provincial tourney when these two amateurs were unable to finish it, since they were both in the amateur title chase as well. It will be 18 holes of match play, starting at 3:30 p.m. today. Additional interest is expected in it, since many fans favored Proctor for the final of the amateur that Martell won from Vickers. Today will indicate how things would have gone if Proctor had been able to get past Matthews in the amateur championship.

The other feature is billed for Sunday—another defence of the Eaton challenge trophy by Matthews and Proctor. Two Calgarys will be shooting for it tomorrow, Nick Vickers and Jack Cutbush, who are probably the strongest pair yet to challenge the Mayfair holders.

For five years he battled to and fro without either enjoying any success. In the last few minutes of the fifth Canadian rally put on the previous night, Allison dropped his knees with flying kicks and then gave the crowd a show to the mat with a publishing boy press.

Modern Bulletin Home Progresses

The G.E. "Home of Tomorrow" being constructed by E. Litchfield, builder, and sponsored by The Edmonton Bulletin, is now showing what advanced steel will be such for inspection on the proposed day of August 18. The last word in a modern, steel, air conditioned home for the average Canadian family of modest income, it will revolutionize future building of Edmonton homes. Situated at the corner of 102 avenue and St. George's Crescent, it already has attracted the attention of thousands of Edmonton citizens who are eagerly following its construction.

Beautiful Homes May Be Erected Minimum Expense

Completion Under Dominion Housing Act Urges Architect Services

By F. W. NICHOLS, M.E.A.C.

Member of Finance

House built under the Dominion

Housing Act are to be built to a standard of construction which should insure a long life, free from excessive depreciation and maintenance.

To those who are considering building a house we draw attention to the following suggestions:

First of all, do not attempt to plan your house until you are reasonably sure of just what the house will be located. If you wish to see your completed house there are many factors to be taken into consideration regarding the site, outlook, approach, orientation, and the fact that unless your house is designed to fit the site it may never appear to belong there, thus seriously affecting its future value.

If you are wise you will choose a good architect, pay him his fee and rest assured that it will be that investment you have ever made.

A good architect should save you in the final cost many times his fee.

AT MINIMUM OUTLAY

Three factors have contributed largely to the present condition of our house building industry: first, failure to finance with amortizing mortgages; second, lack of an accepted building code such as established by the 7th Annual Standards of Construction; and third, lack of appreciation of good design among small house builders.

The first factor is overcome by the Dominion Housing Act. Minimum Standards of Construction and is made possible for the man of limited means to live in an efficiently planned and architecturally correct small house.

In considering the exterior design of our small houses we must remember that ideal of simple and contrasted decoration. Instead of a large, wide and window and door arrangement are more important. Also, a spacious clothes closet is essential. In a bedroom for double occupancy of two beds, try and have two clothes closets. Do not forget the linen closet in the upper hall and general storage closets are always useful. A coat closet near the entrance door is essential.

If you cannot afford to have full length mirrors in each bedroom, perhaps you could afford one in the upstairs hall.

If you require a den and do not feel that you can afford another room, perhaps you can find space for a small closet that will open out into a room and can be fitted up with all the essentials, such as a sliding shelf, a desk and storage or file space for documents and letters, typewriter, books, etc.

WELL CONSTRUCTED

If you are looking forward to sitting in front of your fireplace in your new home, make sure that it is a beautiful fireplace and built right, not just an ugly hole in a plain brick wall. Spend some money on your fireplace even if you have to leave the decorations of the wall. You can add them later but your fireplace will be there for a long time.

After you have your ideas reduced to sketches, plans, do not be misled by the cubic foot method of eliminating building costs.

Remember that no matter how small your house may be you still need a bathroom, a kitchen, a fireplace, a front and rear entrance door, a stairway and a fireplace.
Many of these items are relatively fairly constant, regardless of the cubage of your house. Therefore the smaller the cubage the more it will cost per cubic foot to build.

If you originally plan on a high ceiling and then in order to reduce cubage cut them down 10 per cent you may be reducing your cubage by 10 per cent but your cost is not reducing your building costs by anything like that amount.

Remember that it costs more to build a house of equal floor area one story in height than it does for a two story house.

IS LITTLE ADVANTAGE

When you lay out your room sizes, make them odd in width 9' 0" 11' 0" 13' 0" etc. then you can cut your room heights.
If you insist on a room 12' 0" wide 11' 0" 13' 0" in the clear you can use a 12' 0" span. Watch the ceiling heighting as it helps to spoil the appearance. There is no advantage in a high ceiling, it is to spoil the appearance. Make the room look small and costly to heat.

If the window heads are kept close to the ceiling the ventilation will be just as good as if you had a high ceiling.

Remember that if you do a stairway it is not a stairway. Keep the stairs in a stock size if it possible.

A bathroom adds to the value of the house considerably more than its cost. A built-in bath tub saves floor and wall space. A linoleum floor in the bathroom should be laid in one piece and glued down with waterproof glue.

Have your garage added or be-pairs of the house if possible. The day is not far distant when a deicated garage will be obsolete. An attached garage usually helps your architect to get a more pleasing exterior; even if you do not build it at the same time as the house provide for it if possible.

It costs more to build below the ground than above, therefore, consider carefully just how much bare ground area you require, bearing in mind that in some sections of the country you may have to import your fillings down at least 4 feet without a basement and perhaps much further with a basement.

INSULATE HOMES

Do not let anybody persuade you that insulation of the outside walls and the roof is not economy. A few cold winters and you have paid for the added cost of insulation by the saving in fuel, and the benefits of insulation are felt in the summer as well as the winter.

As well as making it possible for the man of limited means to own his own home, the Dominion Housing Act has set up standards of finishing, construction and design, that should have a far-reaching effect on small houses in the years to come.

Do not forget the linen closet in the upper hall and general storage closets are always useful. A coat closet near the entrance door is essential.

If you cannot afford to have full length mirrors in each bedroom, perhaps you could afford one in

She gave a low chuckle. Her eyes became "Queer things happen in old families, you know," said "My brother Elihu and myself both noticed resemblance and asked our father if he was one of our heads. But our mother said she guessed if one of the young lords had, sometime in the old days had a fancy for a pretty Haystack maid."

happiness. In stylized she looked, he thought, among all these women in their tweeds, with their heavy shawls and woolen stockings, and no powder on their faces. "Were you worried about me, darling?" he asked. "Good gracious, no! I didn't give you a second thought! The time has gone like the wind and, O, so heavenly things I've bought! And at such a price! I've not gotten to tell you anything about them. Just wait until you see them! Do get yourself one of these beauties. They taste perfectly delicious. I suppose that's why because I'm so happy . . . O. Eibhu, to think that we have your own family silver—your own family furniture—in our home! Life's just too marvelous!"

"No doctor has been in Chequamegon since the telephone wires have been cut," he said. "I have enjoyed such repose as they have for the last few days and thought I shall retire some day, in a little while I think fit."

The first moment that I feel myself to be incapable of sustaining the burden which now rests upon me I shall be prepared to pass it to other hands, and I shall be a right judge of what the requirements are."

"But it is for me to decide a matter for no one to dictate to me."

It is a curious fact that the most inveterate critics of the rising tide of internationalism are also loudest in their declarations that the League of Nations should persevere in its policy of Sanctions, regardless of the consequences. The League of Nations cannot be imposed without grave risk of European war.

Mr. Winston Churchill, at events, is under no illusions as to the necessity of armaments, and he is to be praised for his attitude. It is to be presumed, however, that a League of Nations which should confront an aggressor with overwhelming force, organized by voluntary nations, would be struck at its very heart and would cease to exist.

Addressing the students at Bristol

University, of which he is Chancellor, he said.

"The trouble with the labor movement was that it was only one-hundredth part of the world winning a war that the world had failed to stop."

"There is no hope for the present world except in the banding together of many nations, great and small; against an aggressor who is the enemy of all."

"Whoever he may be."

"It is a grim practical necessity that the most urgent of all human obligations."

"If the idea of force, force in the extreme, used in its utmost limit, excluded from the procedure of the League of Nations; it is enough to make an idle dream."

★ BOLIVIA: MORE JOBS THAN WORKERS ★

L.A. PAZ, Bolivia, July 25. — Bolivia, with more jobs than workers, engaged Sunday in rounding up all men between the ages of 18 and 60 years to put them to work.

There is no lack of opportunities for work, government officials said, and President David Toro decreed that all men should find employment.

The reason for this action, officials asserted, is that many veterans of the Chaco war with Paraguay are living on government pensions which are large enough to keep them from seeking work.

GOVERNMENT JOB

July 23—Convicted socialists have been ordered to leave their government jobs in Bolivia, with more jobs to be taken over in the next 60 days to put them to work.

There is no lack of opportunity, says the Bolivian Socialists said, and President David Toro decreed that all men should be put to work.

The reason for this action, officials asserted, is that many veterans of the Chinese Civil War with the Communist Party in Paraguay are living on government pensions which are large enough to permit them to exist without work.

In issuing the decree, the government assured the work conscripts that they would be paid a nationwide wage scale and labor under beautiful conditions.

Actual weighings show that about 20,000 bee-loads are necessary to bring in a pound of nectar, which will make about one-fourth of a pound of honey. Thus, 80,000 bees would be required to bring in enough nectar for a single pound of honey.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD by TIM KERGUSON

THESE WELL-MARKED BIRDS ARE FOUND IN WIDELY SCATTERED AREAS OF THE EARTH. THE AMERICAN FORMS LIVE IN HOLES DUG IN THE BANKS OF LONELY COUNTRY STREAMS.

AS THEIR NAME IMPLIES, THEY FEED CHIEFLY ON FISH, AND ONE CAN BE SURE THAT THERE ARE PLENTY OF SMALL FISH IN ANY STREAM NEAR WHICH A KINGFISHER BUILDS HIS HOME.

OVER PROSPECTIVE PREY, THE BIRD HOVERS IN MID-AIR, BEATING ITS WINGS BACKWARD AND FORWARD.

WHEN READY FOR THE DIVE AFTER A LUCKLESS FISH, THE KINGFISHER HALF CLOSES HIS WINGS AND SHOOTS DOWNWARD INTO THE WATER, LIKE A BLUE METEOR... A VERITABLE LIVING SPEARHEAD.

SOMETIMES, STRAY KINGFISHERS VISIT CITY DISTRICTS AND ENTER A "LIFE OF CRIME,"... RAIDING ONE GOLD-FISH POOL AFTER ANOTHER.

LONG AGO, THE KINGFISHER TRIBE CAUGHT INSECTS, BUT GRADUALLY THEY LEARNED THE ART OF FISHING. UNLIKE THE OSPREY, WHICH CATCHES FISH WITH ITS CLAWS, THE KINGFISHER USES ITS SHARP, SPEAR-LIKE BEAK.
